What I am? Here are some clues:

1. Though my origins date back to ancient Roman times, I didn't reach the United States until 1703.
2. Two French brothers brought me with them on their journey to America.
3. I am a religious celebration that was formed when the Catholics incorporated some aspects of pagan rituals into their traditions.
4. In Belgium, I am the most important day of the year.
5. I was banned in the early 19th century in New Orleans after some celebrators got a bit too rowdy for the governor's taste.
6. I am celebrated globally with parades and masked balls.
7. Though I am a popular event around the world, the exact dates of my celebration can vary from city to city.
8. Groups of people known as krewes create floats for my parades.
9. People often associate my festivities with wild parties and overindulgence.
10. At my parades, one can frequently hear people shouting, "Throw me something, mister!"
11. Each year, a new king and queen are named to oversee my celebrations.
12. I am a legal holiday in the state of Louisiana.
13. If you attend one of my parades, you may be lucky enough to take home a prized handdecorated coconut.
14. You can usually tell if someone has been celebrating me if they have a strand or two of colored beads around their necks.
15. Do you have a sweet tooth? If so, you'd better stock up now – after my festivities, you might have to give those treats up for Lent!
16. If you find a small figurine of a baby inside your slice of cake at one of my parties, you are a very lucky person!
17. I am a major tourist attraction for cities such as New Orleans, Louisiana, and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.
18. My name is French for "Fat Tuesday," though you might also know me as "Shrove Tuesday."
